For reasons I cannot fathom, the school system used a timeshare with another school district to essentially coerce me to agree to get a tutor to help me make up the time that I missed. I offered to take tutoring classes to try and meet the requirements and was refused. Does anyone have any idea of what I can do to help get back into this school district? I need some answers, folks! When you sign up for a course through one of the timeshare providers, it is explained that you will have one-on-one time for tutoring or counseling. I never took it because that was clearly not what the school district was offering. The process was years old so it has likely changed by now. Try calling the district and see if they can give you any tips for getting back into their school. Might need to ask another district that is offering this kind of services, and has a TA office. Or ask for a ROL. Or consult the county TA if there is one. Or get an advice from a local lawyer. I suggest you start with local resources. TA offices are better placed to point you in the right direction as they are probably in-network with the school district. If you have a lawyer, be it a state-licensed one, a member of the bar association, or just a freelancer, he might be able to point you in the right direction. A "re-entry" option is available for gifted students who do not make AYP in the regular high school setting. This allows those students to be enrolled in the "advanced" grades in the a1d647c40b
